Walk Description

The Killawarra Forest is an open IronBark forest attached to the northern end of the Warby Ovens National Park. It has many subtle geographical features which makes it ideal for cross country navigation. A renown forest for birdlife and wildflowers.

Navigation and map reading instruction will be prior to traversing cross country to the geographical features marked on the map.

Participants will have experienced teachers to help them navigate to these features.

Each feature has orange tape in or on it to help them identify they are at the correct point.

Topographical Maps and Compasses will be issued to each participant.
